

Consulting & Business Development Intern (Chinese speaking)

Internship (Full-time) | 3-6 months | Berlin | Remote work possible

ABOUT US

HEALTHCARE TRANSFORMATION.

SILREAL GmbH is a consulting company specialized in the healthcare industry with a geographical focus on China. Complemented with profound experience as well as an established network of decision makers in the Chinese healthcare market, SILREAL accompanies European companies in their entrepreneurial business development as well as partnership building in China in order to realize sustainable success. SILREAL's services are also highly appreciated by public institutions such as the German Startups Association, Federal Ministry of Health as well as Fraunhofer Institute. Furthermore, we have successfully organized various events in the digital ecosystem, including Sino-European Summit 2021.

For our office in Berlin we are looking for an

Intern (Chinese speaking)

with a degree in the natural sciences, medicine or (health) economics and ideally initial experience in the healthcare or consulting environment. SILREAL is looking for team players with strong analytical and strategic skills as well as professional drive, high motivation and commitment. We offer extensive development opportunities in a dynamic and entrepreneurial team.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- You actively support research and analysis of relevant political and economic topics (with China as geographical focus)
- You communicate and interact with Chinese partners
- You create and design professional presentations in Chinese and English
- You contribute with your experience from your first job and your studies
- You know how to combine your agile competencies with technical skills and use them profitably for our clients
- You take in a proactive role in our area, which is structured along the principles and methods of a scaled agile organization
- You will work in agile organized, multidisciplinary teams developing strategies for our clients
- You support the strategic development of SILREAL

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Degree (Bachelor/Master/State Exam/PHD.) in natural science, medicine or (health) economics
- Experience in management consulting is a plus
- Excellent analytical skills and experience in data preparation and interpretation

- Ability to oversee multiple work streams simultaneously
- Initial experience in business development and interest in expanding these activities
- Fluent in Chinese and English (German is a plus)

WHAT WE OFFER:

- A high degree of personal responsibility and independent work
- A steep learning curve and a highly professional and committed team
- Teamwork without rigid hierarchies
- Entrepreneurial spirit and the ambition to permanently develop the company's consulting and service offering
- Insights into a wide variety of areas in the healthcare industry, including pharmaceuticals, medtech and digital health topics
- Attractive and performance-related remuneration as well as numerous opportunities for further development within the dynamically expanding company
- Excellent working atmosphere with a young team

Have we caught your interest?

We look forward to receiving your application, including information about your possible starting date, via hr@silreal.com